ASCADSV's ultimate vision is to build and weave existing supports and infrastructures to further create a safe and healthy island community as stated in it's vision. ASCADSV continues to fulfill this through numerous and simultaneous processes: strengthening itself as an organization; continuing to advocate for the development of services for victims of sexual and family violence and by providing support to other struggling organizational members; and offering services to victims of violence through these organizations. The consistency of being able to continue activities in the community 'big or small' are building blocks to a larger vision of providing and building on existing cultural, faith based and community infrastructures to sustain effective and accessible services and support systems for victims and survivors of family and sexual violence.

The FVTF Office is based on a one-stop shop concept that allows victims to access social workers, law enforcement officers and prosecutors in one place. The unified relationship of service providers helps to keep the victims from falling through the cracks in the system. Various services are provided, including assistance to restraining orders, access to counseling, shelter and advocacy.

Legal Services of the Virgin Islands is an LSC corporation that has been in continued existence since 1969, primarily serving residents of the islands of St. Thomas and St. John. They have always furnished client-centered legal assistance for people living in poverty, elders and more recently, to victims of violence. Legal Services' interpersonal violence mission starts with free civil legal service to provide the victim with information about what can be done for protection and solutions. Client needs that are identified are then addressed in an atmosphere of attorney-client confidentiality.
